Wild Cat Banking—The Personal Responsibility Clause—How the Bankers Regard It.

One of the main stays in the arguments of the friends of a "sheep currency" is the concurred and depreciated paper of the State of Georgia—it has been the personal liability clause in the charters of the wild-cat banks. We have again and again demonstrated that that clause is of security to the bill-holder it not worth the paper upon which it is written; but, to-day, to silence all that has been said, and to force the fact upon the comprehension of every man who will read, we publish a copy of a bond given by the individual stock-holders of a Georgia wild-cat, to various banking houses in this city, as security in the event of any calamity happening to their institution. It is—fictitious names being substituted for those really inserted—as follows:

OBLIGATORY.

Whereas, we are putting in circulation at Chicago the notes, bills and issues of the Wild-Cat Bank, of Red-Dog Cross Roads in the State of Georgia, of which we are the principal stockholders and proprietors; and Whereas, the firm of Snooker & Co., Bankers, have agreed, at our request, to receive such notes, bills and issues in the ordinary and usual course of their business:

Now, therefore, in consideration of the business and of one dollar to us in hand paid, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, we hereby promise and agree to, and no GUARANTY the full payment on demand of all issues bills, notes and liabilities of the Wild-Cat Bank, at Red-Dog Cross Roads, Georgia, which the said Solvency & Co. may hereafter hold against the same, and we also agree to redeem and read, at such time to time all such liabilities, on demand, at the said Wild-Cat Bank of Red-Dog Cross Roads, Georgia, or at our counters in Chicago; and when redeemed on demand at our counter in Chicago, to be redeemed in bank notes current in Chicago.

It is further agreed, that this guaranty is to be surrendered to us within —— days after the demand thereof, on first redeeming and paying all such liabilities as above specified, which the said Solvency & Co. hold against said Wild-Cat Bank, of Red-Dog Cross Roads, Georgia.

SNOOKER & CO.,
TRUSTEE & SONS.
REAL ESTATE & BANK.

Here now is an instrument to which we ask the attention of the farmers, the mechanics and laboring men of the Northwest. Here it is—a confession that the personal liability clause is only an ingenious "dodge," gotten up to deceive the unwary, and to get hold, through a legal fiction, upon the confidence of the public. Here it is—a confession that security is given to those who demand it before they will receive wild-cat in any shape—a confession, at the same time, that the people at large—the men who toil in the workshop and sweat in the fields—have no security whatever.

The reader will not be surprised to learn that their bonds are counted by the wildest men themselves from others engaged in the same business; and that with, one, or perhaps two, exceptions, all of the wild-cat legion in this city, have their names appended to instruments of this sort. And it is not wonderful that it should be so. They know exactly the worth of their issues—money, and bank accommodation by. We only ask that the people should be as well warned as are the bankers themselves.

Diving Deeper.

On the first page will be found the platform of the three candidates for Speaker of the House of Representatives, at Washington.

Richardson, the candidate of the Nebraskats, did not acquit himself to the satisfaction of his Southern supporters. He permitted Fuller, the Know-Nothing candidate, to cut completely under him. He balked on the constitutionality of the Wilmot Proviso, announcing his belief that it was constitutional but not expedient, and begging forgiveness from his Slave-breeding compatriots for entertaining such sentiments, promising never to vote to sustain them in practice.

To the question whether he believed that the "Quantities now carried Slavery to and protected it in the Territories"—that is, whether the people of the Territories had the legal right to abolish Slavery in them, Richardson replied that "the Constitution affords the same protection there to the institutions of one State as of another." This means that the Virginian may hold his slaves in the Territories as securely as the Illinoisan his horses; to which he adds a proviso that "both are dependant on the Territorial Government for law to protect their property of whatever kind." This is riding both sides of the fence, skillfully. But such trimming will hardly deceive the people. He will lack a little from motives of party policy—not from principle or conscience, fearing that if he went the whole Southern figure he would damage the Northern wing of the Democracy.

Not so with the Know-Nothing candidate, Fuller; he was restrained by no such fear of offending or shocking the moral sense of the people of the North.

He laid down the doctrine, 1st. That the Wilmot or Jefferson Proviso was unconstitutional, and therefore he opposed it. 2d. That Congress had no right to legislate upon the subject of Slavery. 3d. That the people of Kansas and Nebraska, nor of any other Territories, had the right to legislate against or prevent the introduction of Slavery on their soil—that slaveholders could bring into the territories of Kansas, Nebraska or Minnesota, their slaves, keep, work, sell and beat them, claiming as their warrant the absolute defiance of the Constitution of the United States, the powers of Congress and the General Government, or, the laws and will of the people of the territories! And the reason he gave was that "property in slaves was a vested right, belonging to the people of any of the States, which could not be impaired, nor could the introduction of it be excluded from any public territory by any power, until after such territory became a sovereign State. For the avowal of these atrocious sentiments, he was applauded by the slave breeders, and his election confirmed by nearly the whole of the self-styled "Americans." His platform is the Know Nothing platform—the par excellence "National American Platform." And to this complexion has Know Nothingism come at last. To this quagmire has the dark lantern-bearers guided their blind followers.

It is proper to add here that on one other point Richardson dodged. P. Bingham of Ohio, asked him:

"Do you hold that, under the constitution, a person held to service or labor within said Territory, escaping therefrom into any State of this Union, can be reclaimed under the Fugitive Slave Law? or is such person within the extradition clause of the second section of article four of the constitution?"

To answer this, Richardson found himself in dilemma. The fugitive clause of the Constitution makes no provision for the surrender or rendition of slaves escaping into a territory, and Congress must find its authority in the general power to legislate for the territories.

But to admit this as the source of authority, also carries with it the right of Congress to legislate against the admission of slavery into the territories. This was the point that cramped Richardson, so he offered a paltry equivocation, and refused to answer the question.

But it is refreshing to turn away from the sad and truncated platforms of the Democrat and Know Nothing candidates to the manly, upright and Constitutional position upon which the Republican candidate planted himself. He stands no jot or tittle of the free grounds held by Freemen, but boldly proclaimed his sentiments against the aggressive, demands of the oligarchy—holding fast to the great principles of the Declaration of Independence guaranteed by the Constitution. Read the replies.

CHIVALRIC DUBOSE.—In 1850 a capitation tax was levied upon the Free Negroes of the State of Virginia, in order to raise funds for the colonization in Africa of all colored people who chose to go. Fifty thousand dollars have been extorted from the proscribed race; and now we learn that the sum has gone into the State Treasury which is impoverished, and not a black man could be sent to Liberia, if there were a steamer and waiting to go.

A HUNDRED OR DOLLARS SAVED BY THE HOOSAC TUNNEL OR 7 HOURS.—In noticing the last number on the Hudson River Railroad, the New York Express says:

Mr. John Upton, the messenger of Wells, Butterfield & Co.'s American Express, was among the injured. He was severely bruised in his side and head, and one of the small bones of his leg was broken. He had in charge many a million of dollars, but, notwithstanding his severe injuries, he refused to leave the express, and remained in the car several hours in the cold with the express matter. No amount of courage and endurance like this has ever been recorded.

RAILROAD FACILITY.—The following anecdote illustrative of railroad facility, is from Ireland. A traveler inquired of a negro the distance to a certain point. "Dat, massa, depends on circumstances," replied the darkey. "If you gwine ahead, it's nuffin' more 'bout a day; if you gwine in the gwine, or de backward way, you'll make it in half de day; but you gwine at one of dese cracky wagons, you be almost dar now!"

New Books.

INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN LAW: Designed as a first book for Students and Private Readers. By JAMES WALKER, LL. D., President of Law in the University of Chicago. 12mo. pp. 400. Price $1 25. For sale by S. C. GRIGGS & CO., 39 Lake street.

In the work of Judge Walker—whose decease it was our melancholy duty to chronicle a few days since—are discussed the various topics of constitutional, civil, criminal, maritime, equity and remedial jurisprudence. It is divided into six parts, and the lectures of which it is composed are forty-three in number. The whole field of the law is comprised by them; not only those parts which are of more general interest, but also those which belong to every day practice. It is the most comprehensive treatise in its department to be found in our literature—more so than Kent's, who omits the topics of criminal jurisprudence and the modern practice—and more so than Blackstone, since whose time much has been added to the science, and much then existing has since passed away. The present edition has been much enlarged, both the text and the notes—enlarging upon Admiralty Proceedings, and Real Estate and Contracts. In the notes on the latter subject—consideration, assent, the statute of frauds, negotiable paper, common carriers, inn-keepers, life and fire insurance, the very latest English and American cases have been fully and compactly collated, principally by Mr. Pierce, a talented young lawyer, who has just removed to this city to commence the practice of his profession.

This treatise is designed, as the title page states, to introduce students of the law to their chosen profession, and we have no authority of eminent lawyers that it answers this purpose better than any of its predecessors. It is not characterized by that too sententious brevity which renders some elementary treatises the dry and repulsive enumeration of stiff generalizations, while it avoids that protracted discussion which can only be fully composed in many ponderous tomes. The style is simple and technicalities are translated into common phrase. The American Jurist, a law periodical of high authority, thus noticed the first edition:

"We take leave of Mr. Walker with grateful acknowledgments for the pleasure with which we have read his work, and regret our sense of its value as an accession to our legal literature. We have found it in much to admire and very little to qualify that admiration. Its systematic arrangement, its comprehensiveness, its accuracy and its clear simplicity of style will insure a large measure of fame in the fair of that crowd of law-books, whose 'dissoluble fragments' the waves of time are perpetually washing away. The intelligent student will value it as a clear-sighted guide in the early stages of his toilsome pilgrimage, and the accomplished lawyer if he be free from the narrow prejudices which the profession sometimes engenders, will turn away with disdain from its unpretending pages, for though it does not pretend to teach him anything new, he will esteem it for the manifestation of a vigorous, reflective mind, which he will love and respect as such."

The Standard Bearer.

The ultra Slave-holding Press is delighted with Gen. Pierce's Message, and the Charleston (S. C.) Mercury is especially laudatory. Hear it:

The principles involved in this question (slavery question) are handled by the President with unusual clearness and force, and we do not know where to look for an embodiment within the same compass of so much sound and strong exposition of the rights of the parties to the constitutional compact. In the largeness of the views, and the force and consistency of the principles advanced, and in the truly patriotic conclusions which are drawn from the premises, the message is entitled to the highest commendation of those remarkable State papers of Mr. Calhoun, which, disdaining and discarding the formalisms and truisms of political platforms, appealed directly to the great sense of that vast public, which is neither office-holder nor candidate, but whose interests are always imperiled equally by the follies, the vices, and the cowardice of public men.

"The Southern people have demanded protection to this property peace in its enjoyment."

"The right, indeed, is conceded to them in it and to enjoy it," says the Mercury, "and President Pierce grants this demand, and defends this right." "There are principles." "Let them be established, and we should have all we ever asked."

The Charleston (S. C.) Mercury of the 7th, continues:

To the Southern States, the necessity of a union in the support of these principles was never so apparent as at the present. To them, such union is a matter of vital importance. If we yield it, we are broken into fragments, and lost in a vortex of factions, out of which no power can put us together, and the majority of which are our relentless enemies. We can only unite upon the principles that are so clearly and happily set forth in the President's Message; and for the present at least, he must of necessity be the standard-bearer and the representative of the conservative portion of the Federal Union on principles which are consistent with the conservation of the rights of the States, and the interest and good understanding of the members of the Confederacy.

Gen. Pierce is well and truly designated here. He is true FRANKLIN PIERCE and Representative of the Slave Power. But observe the qualification—"for the present at least." so if when he had done all he could to establish that Slave Power in one advance, another of larger mould should be used to make its basis wider and surer. Let Gen. Pierce have the title, however, that confirms upon him. Let him be known as "a standard-bearer and representative" of the Slave Power.

The Collins Steamers.

After the robbery of the Post Office Department, by the Collins Line of Government, through the operation of the Franking Privilege, the compensation paid to the Collins Line of Steamers for carrying the English mails, is the greatest gouge that the postal service of this country is called upon to bear. That compensation is $33,000 a trip. How much this bleeding of the Treasury is necessary to maintain the line, the New York Evening Post shows in the following statement of receipts and expenses:

26 voyages to Europe, carrying 2,952 passengers,	$590,400
26 voyages, each voyage 300 tons, carrying 1,000 tons freight,	117,000
26 voyages from Europe, carrying 1,400 tons,	273,000
26 voyages, each voyage 300 tons, carrying 1,000 tons freight,	351,000
	$1,331,400
Add United States mail pay for 26 voyages, at $33,000 each,	858,000
Total receipts by E. K. Collins & Co., for year,	$2,189,400
Expenses for 26 voyages, at $15,000 each,	$390,000
Expenses for 26 voyages, at $30,000 each,	780,000
Wages per steamer each voyage, $10,000,	260,000
	$1,430,000
Leaving a surplus for interest, &c., of	$759,400
Out of which a sinking fund of $1,000,000 is to be paid in annual instalments of $200,000 each,	200,000
Leaving a surplus for interest,	$559,400
Add interest annually to sinking fund,	70,000
	$629,400

It is quite certain that the line is, or might be made, self-sustaining, did not the Government defend, by its ill-timed and unjust liberality, all the effect of a wholesome competition, by building competition impossible. We hope to see the day that Collins and his friends will be suffered, like other men, to take care of themselves.

The Commercial Review.

This is the name of a neat and excellent paper published in Louisville, Ky., and edited by L. WOODRUFF FRENCH and BEN. CASSEDAY. The leader in its issue of Jan. 4th, is spirited and eloquent: Speaking of the Mercantile Profession, the Review says:

Success in trade, as in everything else, depends on a correct conception of what is to be done, a capacity to discover the means of doing it, and an energy to accomplish the result. Very great talent, in the ordinary sense of that term, is not necessary to successful business, but the cultivation of certain qualities of mind, always improves the chances for prosperity. Judgment of expediency, insight into character, tact, quickness of comprehension, and acquaintance with the present history of the world, are perhaps the most essential parts of a business education. It is surely not necessary to attempt to prove the proposition that mental cultivation of whatever sort tends to brighten and develop all these qualities. It has been already urged, by some, that a liberal education has a tendency to unfit a man for the daily avocations of trade. That may be true in so much as he rejects the practical lessons of the counting-house. It is true that the faculties are best developed, that practice, regularity, and order, is best taught, that the mental habit of generalization is best enforced, and that Practicality most wisely teaches how to apply the information already gained.

There was a time, in England and even in some parts of the continent, when the merchant was esteemed as the most accomplished of all men, not merely in his own little circle of trade, but also in a comprehensive knowledge of the world and its history, and in all the graces of society. That time should return in the United States. Our merchants hold the power of the world in their hands, and they would be little competent to the noble position assigned them, if they all neglected polishing themselves and liberal ignorance as the proper requisites of their occupation. There is no place of men, whether at the bar, the forum, the pulpit, the library, or the workshop, who would not be benefitted by the practical experience and intelligent observation required in the counting house. And the counting house should be conscious of its nobility, and while it should suffer no one to trench upon its dignity, it should gradually labor by example and attention to compel all the world to acknowledge the virtue and value of its lessons.

LIQUOR LAW PROSECUTION.—The total number of prosecutions in Boston for violation of the liquor law, in 1855, was eighty-four, and not a single conviction.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Speakership.

[Special Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17, 1856.

Banks' vote came up strong to-day, the legislature result of the caucus last night. Mr. Breckinridge and others came best to him, and he lacked but six changes to elect him.

The hostility to Banks was then moved by Mr. Williams of Rockester, and the previous question sprung thereon. The Yeas comprise all who support Mr. Banks, except Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, with Mr. Williams, of New York, and Messrs. Barclay, of Pennsylvania, who are Democrats. The Nays were Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, all the Richardson men except the above, all the Southern Americans, and Messrs. Dunn, Scott, Moore, Scott, Harrison, Haven, Edwards, Bayard Clark, Whitney, Valk, Millward, Broome and Fuller. Yeas, 94; Nays, 106. Let the country note who refuse to have the House organized. Mr. Zollicoffer author travels. Mr. Stephens in debate to-day.

H. G.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17, 1856.

There has been no balloting yet to-day. The whole sitting has been consumed in unprofitable discussions between Messrs. Carlyle and McMullen.

The action of the Anti-Nebraska caucus last night fortifies Banks materially. Mr. Brenton and others will support.

To-day Mr. Thorington of Iowa, as soon as the House came to order, rose and offered a resolution making Mr. Lewis D. Campbell, of Ohio, Speaker of the House. Mr. T. avowed that he offered this resolution without consulting any body. It did not elect Mr. Campbell; it did not organize the House; on the contrary, it introduced new elements of discord and heart-burning; it wrecked the day; and it very nearly broke the Anti-Nebraska party into pieces. Some were constrained by it to vote for Mr. Campbell who did not desire his election; others were brought to vote against him who deeply regretted the necessity imposed on them of so doing.

Dunn, of course, was in his element. He had once before urged the call of a nominating caucus, and agreed to abide its decision. When it convened, however, he appeared and made a bitter, malevolent speech, and then left, refusing to stay and vote because he knew Banks would be nominated by a large majority. He forthwith refused to be governed by the result, because all the Anti-Nebraska Members did not attend! though a majority of them did, and the rest were fairly notified, and could not be required to go. To-day he recalled the promise which he had then made, and avowed his resolve to defy and gave notice that he would never vote for Banks, however strongly nominated, but would vote for any body else. This man calls himself Anti-Nebraska, and says he will be even with the foremost in that duty; yet he tells the great majority of the Anti-Nebraska men that they must surrender their preference for Speaker in conformity to his will, or the House shall not be organized so long as he can prevent it. Was not this headstrong, selfish willfulness cause of the adjournments. It was in one of his vessels, the Acorn—that Sims was put on board in Georgia—the first fugitive carried from Boston under the Act of 1850.

I wrote to you about a month ago, I think, that a vessel named the Middlesex had arrived at Boston from some Southern port, with two negroes on board, who were picked up in a small boat adrift in sight of land, off the coast of Florida, and who could not give any satisfactory account of themselves, but were probably fugitives. I also wrote that the Governor of Massachusetts, and the aforesaid negroes, whenever they now are, you may take my word for it, are further from Florida than they were a month ago. Last week, Mr. Pearson received a letter from Mr. J. P. Brown, of Key West, Florida, stating that he had seen in the papers an account of the arrival of the two negroes in Boston in Mr. Pearson's vessel, and from the circumstances he was satisfied that they were two slaves of his, who had gone off in a boat about the time they were picked up by the Middlesex. He gave a description of their persons, which was sufficiently accurate to leave no doubt of the truth of his statement. In conclusion, he requested Mr. Pearson to obtain the papers and send to the owners, for the purpose of saving her iron and copper.

Progress of Anti-Slavery Sentiment.

Rochester, Monroe County, N. Y.

The progress of Anti-Slavery sentiment in quarters apparently hopeless is strikingly shown by a circumstance which occurred here recently. John P. Harris is one of our rich men, a large ship-owner, well known in State street. For many years he has been detested by the Abolitionists as the incarnation of commercial Heterism—as a confirmed and irreclaimable Union-saver. He trades largely with the South. About ten years ago, I think it was, a slave was erected himself on one of his vessels, arrived in Boston, got ashore, and was then seized by the officers carried on board of his own ship, locked in the port he had escaped from. Of course this excited great indignation among the Anti-Slavery men. A Faneuil Hall meeting was held in consequence, over which John Quincy Adams presided. Mr. Pearson was denounced to the full capacity of the English language. He was held up to scorn before the public, and from that time till now he has been a marked man on the Anti-Slavery ladders. He quietly submitted to the infliction, and the old man that walks State street was fiercer in defiance of the Abolitionists or warmer in defense of the slave-holders. It was in one of his vessels, the Acorn—

LIFE AND DEATH;
—OR—
Mysteries of Disease laid open to the People.
Health is the Principle of Life; Disease is the Principle of Death.
THE R. R. R. REMEDIES POSSESS THE GREAT POWER TO SECURE TO THE HUMAN SYSTEM HEALTH AND LONG LIFE, AND TO FREE THE HUMAN FAMILY FROM PAIN, ACHES, AND ALL DISEASE INFIRMITIES.
THE ART OF PRESERVING HEALTH AND THE METHOD OF CURING DISEASE
BY THE USE OF Radway's Ready Relief,
Is to be used in all cases where there is pain. The moment it is applied externally or taken internally, it will stay the most excruciating pain. In from one to twenty minutes after taking a quarter less Morphine, Philadelphia, Veratrine, or any other anodyne or remedy that has ever been used by mankind
HORRIBLY INJURIOUS.
Will do such less dangerous remedies. The public will please to read the Circulars around each bottle, and be guided by the rules in applying the means, so that the perspiring fluid may be determined to the part affected. In a few minutes after the application of the Ready Relief, the most violent of these excruciates have passed from the extremities of the system, and the whole system is left in a perfect state of equilibrium in the system a sensation of health and strength, and a feeling of calmness and quietude.
Radway's Ready Relief stops the pain, and removes the cause of the disease that occasions it. It is the same in a few minutes after it is applied. Whether it be a burn, scald, bruise, cut, sprain, pain in the back, side or limbs, pain in the bowels, stomach, nerves, bones, sides and back, rheumatism, neuralgia, headache, toothache, pain in the face—then Radway's Ready Relief should be applied with the greatest promptness. Fifty drops in a tumbler of water as the Relief is applied, a cracking will take place, and in a few minutes after the pain will cease. Then take a dose of RADWAY'S REGULATORS.
If these signs of the presence of disease in the system are neglected, the following train will, in 24 hours, be the result: Typhoid, Scarlet, Ship Fever and other malignant fevers, Inflammation of the Lungs, Still Fever, and Bronchial Tubes, with rapid treatment becomes necessary. The Regulators should be taken according to the directions, and the Ready Relief to rub, and free and copious discharges from the bowels are to be produced. Then the following symptoms will disappear: A cessation of pain in the side, and, taken in water, will abate the fever.
If inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the Breast, Heart, Intens and Ready Relief should be taken in large doses. Inflammation of the Bowels, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Sour Stomach, Nausea, Vomiting, Heartburn, Sick Stomach, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Griping in the Bowels, and Flatulency, given to run down, and the most violent of these diseases will disappear in a few hours, if the Ready Relief and Regulators are taken according to the directions, and speedily cure the patient.
IF RHEUMATISM,
Attacking the joints and muscles, inflicting its terrible piercing pangs of pain with shooting contractions—Chronic or acute—Sciatica, Lumbago, Pain in the Back, Kidneys, Sides and Bowels, Ulceration of the Kidneys and Bladder, Stone in the Bladder, Gravel, Inflammation, in their most terrible forms, the use of Radway's Ready Relief will remove the pain in ease and comfort.

Dripped with Rheumatism, Arm and Leg paralyzed—No hopes of his recovery—Timely use of R. R. R.—A Wonderful Cure.

LETTER FROM THAD. STEVENS, ESQ.
Messrs. Radway & Co.—Radway's Ready Relief has cured Peter Her of Rheumatism, with which he was dripped. He is now recovering. I heard of his situation, and sent for him. His case is one of the most severe I ever saw. I have not time to call on you for the use of your medicine, as you wished, but I have no hesitation in saying that I believe it will cure any case of Rheumatism. Yours, &c.
